ENGLISH Pronunciation PRACTICE

Say what? You bet him or you beat him?

18 Pair Activities for Common Conversation Topics

GUNTHER BREAUX

For English students, from middle school to adult

Most non-native speakers have trouble with certain sounds of English because they do not have those sounds in the their own language. For example:

| L | R | N | W | | |

Here are 18 information-gap, pair-activities for common EFL topics

For example, when you're covering the FOOD unit in your class, use the FOOD unit here to improve pronunciation.

Vocabulary will also be improved because the answer words are topic words such as: brunch, buffet, crispy, vegetarian.

Is it easy to improve pronunciation?

No. It's hard. Very hard. And every year it gets harder.

Pronunciation is not an intellectual activity.

It is a muscular activity that requires repetitive practice.

How repetitive?

Each activity requires each student to ask about 70 questions which require precise pronunciation: Did you say bat or beat?

Each activity takes about 30 minutes. The games gradually get more difficult, but students improve so the time remains about the same.

All human learning can be summed up in three words: watch, try, repeat.

WHO IS THIS BOOK FOR?

EFL students, from middle school to adult.

Virtually all non-native speakers have trouble with certain sounds of English, primarily because they do not have those sounds in their native languages. Therefore, they have no habit discerning nor producing these sounds.

These are some of the main sounds that EFL students have trouble with.

WHAT IS IT?

16 Battleship type, information-gap, pair activities for the 16 most common ESL textbook topics. Thus, you can have a pronunciation focus with whatever unit or topic you are covering.

The usual coordinates for a battleship game are A, B, C, and 1, 2, 3. These are easy to distinguish and pronounce. These COORDINATE WORDS feature the most difficult sounds for Koreans to distinguish and pronounce, such as: light, right, night, white, and beat, bat, bet, bit.

The ANSWER WORDS are vocabulary from the ESL topic, for example, FOOD: appetizer, bland, brunch, buffet, crispy, waitress, vegetarian.

HOW LONG?

The activities can take from 20 to 40 minutes. Body language is encouraged. This fundamental task is to communicate. Pairs that finish first check their answers and then talk about the topic.

After everyone has finished, pronounce all the words coordinate words again.

"Next week, we'll do it again, with a new topic, with new partners."

WHY?

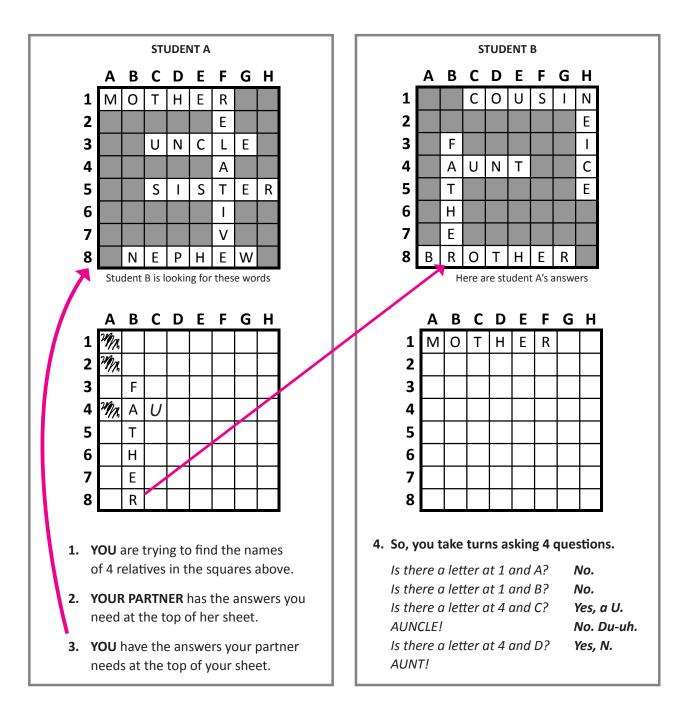

Because French people speak English with a French accent. Chinese speak English with a Chinese accent. For their whole life their mouth muscles have been used differently. Pronunciation is about muscles and muscles require EXTENSIVE practice. Here is extensive practice – directly related to the topic being covered.

Tell your students this:

Einstein spoke English with a heavy accent. Are you smarter than him? No! No way. So, don't rely on your brains to improve your English pronunciation. Pronunciation is about muscles, and muscles require repetitive practice.

STUDENT INSTRUCTIONS

In the first activity, FAMILY, instead of 1, 2, 3 and A, B, C (which are easy to pronounce), you will use words that sound alike, such as: light, right, white, night; ban pan, fan, van; seat, sat, set, sit

Me: Is there a letter in RIGHT and FAN?

You: Wait. Did you say LIGHT, like in the sun?

Me: No. RIGHT, like in correct.

You: OK, got it. Wait, did you say PAN, like to cook, or FAN like the wind?

Me: FAN, like electric fan.

You: OK, I got it. No, there is no letter there.

There will be confusion.

Clearing up that confusion will require real communication, and improve your pronunciation and listening.

INSTRUCTIONS

Students sit in pairs, facing each other.

- 1. Pronounce the pronunciation practice at the top. (Or play the audio)
- 2. Pronounce the coordinate words. Or play.
- 3. Go over the instructions. After the first week, this is not needed.
- 4. Student A is looking for FOOD words to fill his blanks at the bottom of his sheet. Student B has those words at the top of her sheet.
- 5. Student B is looking for her words, which are at the top of A's sheet.
- 6. Yell: ACTION!

Each students asks 4 questions, then it's their partners turn. It goes like this:

A student asks: Is there a letter at near and berry?

BERRY, like the fruit.

Is there a letter at rear and berry?
Is there a letter at we're and berry?

OK. Is there a letter at we're" and very?

B student says: Is there a letter at ray and berry?

Is there a letter at ray and very?

Is there a letter at ray and ferry, like the boat?

B guesses: EAT!

Bummer. Is there a letter at ray and Perry?

B says, Did you say VERY or BERRY?

B answers, No.

B answers, No.

B answers, No.

B says, Yes, there's a 'C.' My turn.

A answers, No.

A answers Yes, there's a E.

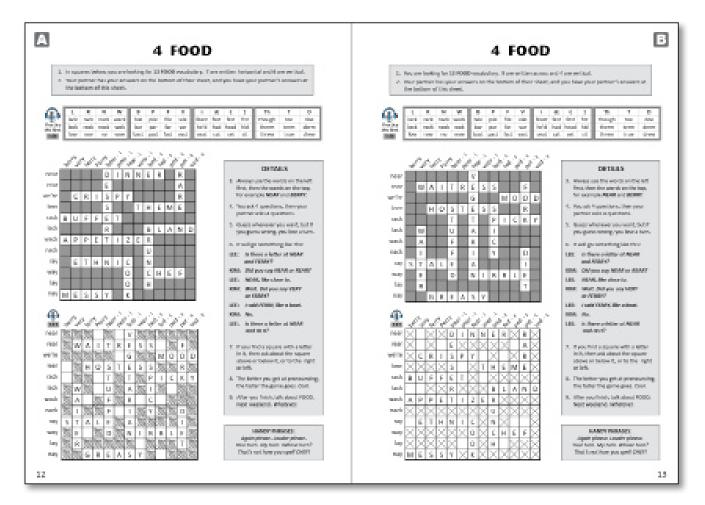

A answers Yes, there's a T.

A says, That's not how you spell EAT!

A says, Yes, there's an 'H'. My turn.

And so on until they finish.

30 - 40 minutes later, their sheets look like this

Details

- 1. Whenever students guess wrong, they scratch out the block so they don't ask about block again.
- 2. Students can guess, this speeds things up. For example, most could guess after knowing: "APPETIZ"
- 3. The top of each sheet tells students how many horizontal and vertical words they are looking for.
- 4. Encourage students to pronounce clearly, and to give examples if necessary:

 Berry, like the fruit. Ferry, like a boat. Ray like an X-ray. Near, like close by.
- 5. There will be confusion. For example, a student might confuse ray with way, and: a) give wrong answers for the whole row, or b) write the answers in the wrong row. Clearing up this confusion is fun, and builds pronunciation and communication skills.
- 6. After pair group finishes, have them check their answers, then talk about the topic.
- 7. After everybody finishes, pronounce the coordinate words again. Twice.

Outcome

Each game has about 70 answer vocabulary. After finishing, each student has pronounced about 140 words that sound alike, and tried to comprehend 140 words.

That is repetitive practice.

They are better.

1 FAMILY

You are looking for 9 FAMILY vocabulary. 5 are written across and 4 are vertical.

- 1. To find the vocabulary word, you ask if there is a letter in a certain square, for example: Is there a letter in 1 and A? Your partner will answer YES or NO.
- 2. Your partner has the information you need at the top of their sheet, and you have the information they need at the bottom of this sheet.

PRONUNCIATION PRACTICE

Clearing up confusion creates communicative competency.

INTRODUCTION

The next page is in both workbooks, so during the semester, about every other week, I pronounce a set of words. After the first test, I tell the students that they did wonderful on speaking a lot, now they will learn to speak correctly. And we do this activity.

If students really want to improve, they can go the JAZZ website and download the audio files and listen and pronounce.

INSTRUCTIONS

Students sit in a group of 3 or 4.

A reads the words in her darkened rectangles and B and C scratch out what they think they hear. (A does not have to read the number, then the word; B and C can follow along.)

Check the score. A then reads the correct answers: one, third; two, third; three, second; four, third. And so on. Make the students read the numbers IN ENGLISH. The partners check their score and write how many they missed on top of the page.

Then, B pronounces and then reads the correct answers, then C.

Different groups finish at different times. After they finish, make sure they have checked their answers. Then, tell them this is a conversation class, and they can talk about the correct unit, last weekend, next weekend, or global warming. Whatever. Conversation is King.

Encourage students to practice at home with the website.

The road to perfection is paved with repetition.

AUDIO FILES

There are 7 MP3 audio files for this activity. A1, A2, B1, B2, C1, C2, and D.

There are two audio files for columns A, B and C because one file for each column would be too large.

FREQUENCY

I usually pronounce one column per week.

I give more emphasis to pronunciation after the midterm speaking test.

I tell the class that this increased focus on pronunciation is in response to the pronunciation problems that were shown on the test.

PRONUNCIATION PRACTICE

Koreans and most Asian students have trouble with these sounds:

light - right - night - white

bad - pad - fad - vad

beat - bat - bet - bit

This page has 132 sets of words that sound alike. Why so many? Because pronunciation requires mouth muscles, and muscles require practice.

- 1. You go third. Pronounce the words in the black squares. Your partners will scratch out the words they hear.
- 2. You do not have to say the numbers, your partners can follow.
- 3. After you finish, give the correct answers. Use the numbers, and the headers at the top of each group.
- 4. You will say this: One, third. Two third. Three, second. Four, third. And so on.
- 5. Then, it is D's turn.
